We function in this world the way we are programmed, depending on the ingredients of our DNA and the seasoning. But the key lies in understanding the syntaxes of the people around us, in order to function in harmony.

I believe in adapting those syntaxes and building an original code. Learning and exploring constantly, i want my life to be dynamically relevant and pleasing to everyone.

Anything and everything that i choose to do, reflects my hunger to learn. I learn, because without learning, i can't stay updated and i can't create a better world. The future needs harmony and balance more than it needs unsupervised growth.
